A Prison Plet.

At Columbia, S. C., last week, one of the guards was arrested, charged with counterfeiting silver currency. After a preliminary examination he was sent to jail in default of bail to await his trial at the approaching session of the U.S.

The circumstances which led to the arrest are as follows: Colonel Liscomb, the superintendent of the penitentiary, had information causing him to suspect that some of the convicts were making arrangements to escape. In pursuing his investigations he directed one of the white prisoners to secrete himself under the bed of one of the suspected negro convicts. While there other convicts came in and engaged in conversation with the negro about the plot and disclosed the plan of operation, all of which was duly reported by the man under the bed, to the proper authorities, who immediately summoned twenty or thirty of the convicts for examination. When they found that their plot had been discovered some of them peached on others, and many openly confessed their complicity in the affair. It was ascertained that eighty of the negro convicts had entered into a conspiracy to escape at all hazards. They had managed to conceal clubs, hatches, knives and axes and had agreed to escape at daybreak Sunday morning, May 1st. When the guards came to release them from their cells they would simultaneous rusk upon and overpower them, and if necessary murder them. The plan was well arranged, and doubtless would have been executed but for the discovery made by the superintendent.

When the officers were prosecuting their search for evidence against the conspirators they discovered a band of counterfeiters among the white convicts, and found dies and other implements for counterfeiting concealed in the cells. Large quantities of coin, silver dollars, fifty cent pieces and quarters were also found. These base coins were so skillfully made that but for their light weight no bank clerk could have detected their spurious character. It is said that Columbia is flooded with this money. The matter has caused much excitement here, especially since it is said that some of the guards are implicated. It is expected that other arrests will be made and additional facts elicited.

LE An English traveller says that in many portions of Russia, beds at hotels are not provided with sheets, and in order to precure those "luxuires" he had to pay a considerably additional item in his bill. Had he made inquiries he would have discovered that it is customary with Russians of any position when travelling in their own country to carry their own bed covering with them; in fact on being shown to a sleeping-apartment at an inn the couch is provided with a mattress and pillew only; blankets and sheets are supposed to be included in the guest's baggage. Should be have omitted to bring such things, which would be unlikely in a native, then cevering would be furnished and charged for. The Czar's gently-nurtured subjects have a repugnance to sleeping under bedelothes which in their time may have warmed the recumbent bodies of any number of their miscellaneous countrymen, or an equally heterogeneous collection of foreigners. It is a whim of fastidious cleanliness, that is all. The people of every nation have their little peculiarities.

Terrible Western Floods.

St Joseph, Mo., April 27 .- The river at this point is twenty-two feet six inches above low water mark and slowly rising. Many families have been rescued from their inundated houses in the bottom lands during the day generally in destitute circumstances. All the movable flat boats have been in use removing people and stock. An old man and his wife 76 to 80 years of age were to-day rescued from the Elmwood Bottoms, where they were living in a small one-story house, having been for two or three days surrounded by the swift current a mile or more from land and the water two feet deep in the house. It is reported that Charles Mann and two women were drowned near Craig to-day in attempting to escape the flood in a small boat.

A Dying Convict's Request.

Three years ago a powerful colored burglar was sent to the Eastern Penitentiary from Harrisburg and shortly after his admission to that institution he contracted consumption, a disease that prevails to an alarming extent among those subject to close confinement. His death has been expected for several days past. On Saturday last his term expired and he called his keeper to him and in a feeble voice requested that he be removed from the Penitentiary, as he did not want to die there. He was yesterday taken to the Almshouse .- Philadelphia Press.

(2) A little boy was terribly bitten by a rabid dog at Eldridge's Hill, Salem county, N. J., a few days ago. The brute knecked the little fellow down, and standing ever him tore his fiesh in a number of places.
